TMA Kit (Prognostic Research Laboratory, Piscataway, NJ, USA) according to the protocol of the manufacturer. All specimens were stained with the streptavidin-biotin immunohistochemistry technique using the VECTASTAIN Elite ABC

Kit (Vector Laboratories, Inc., Burlingame, CA, USA). Paraffinized TMA blocks were cut into 4 μm sections and deparaffinized with xylene, followed by rehydration with an ethanol gradient. Heat induced antigen retrieval was performed for 10 min in a microwave. Slides were then incubated with the primary antibody overnight at 4 °C. Sections were then incubated with the secondary antibody for 30 min and peroxidase-conjugated streptavidin for 30 min, and counterstained with hematoxylin. The sections were washed in PBS between each step. Biotinylated secondary antibody and avidin-biotin complex were applied according to the protocol of the manufacturer. Tissue samples {#Sec8}

----- Human breast tumor tissues were obtained from 10 patients and the FFPE samples were harvested from the Institut Curie Tissue Bank, France. Approval by an institutional ethical committee and informed consent of all patients were obtained before surgery and collection of the samples. None of the patients received neoadjuvant therapy. All samples were verified for histopathological diagnosis of breast cancer and ER status.

EMSA {#Sec9} ----

Nuclear extracts from MCF7 cells were prepared using the

InviTrap® Spin kit (Invitrogen, France), according to the manufacturer's protocol, and incubated with a biotin-labeled NF-κB consensus DNA probe (sequence 5'-AGT TGA GGG GAC TTT CCC AGG C-3') for 40 min at 25 °C. Antibody-protein complexes were bound to the DNA probe using a streptavidin-conjugated horseradish peroxidase probe for 40 min at 25 °C, and were separated by electrophoresis in native polyacrylamide

gels. The DNA bands
