 Released Hey guys, we've just released the soundtrack for the classic soundtracks to the original games. The soundtrack is by a jazz guitarist and saxophonist both of which have very distinct styles. In addition to this, the IDM Brothers have created some silence and/or sound manipulation along with lots of fun with that little Rabbit and funny winks. Please note that the synthesised sounds are not master quality, so unfortunately they won't be used in most of the commercial games. We have a working environment to make a vocal version of the sounds where we can take requests from our fans, this will most likely be later in the year. You can download the soundtrack via the soundcloud page below or in the archive under the 'S4D' folder. Thanks to everyone that voted and supported us up to now and especially after today's release we managed to reach 322 fans with over 300 followers. I think this a massive boost to us as its the 1 million vote mark for campaigns that we look to achieve at some point. It's a shame I could not see the little bugger for a whole day but I am sure I will see him tomorrow for sure. My little guy will just get bigger and better at supressing them now and I'll probably need to put up spikes around the garden to keep the bugs safe and to grow bigger Thanks to every one for voting and I'll try and see if I can keep up the theme of awesome throughout the next couple of weeks. Excellenced - this is probably a surprise to you but there's a couple of things here that I'm really passionate about. One is XB2 music and the other is Star XB1 where Gary does some really stunning ambient creations. Re: Superawesomebug is back - Hi, im Superawesomebug, inflatable castle builder extraordinaire! And i will be returning with my inflatable RC Bugs ready to join the xbox one. Brings it to the next level of bugs. Something to note that isn't obvious right now is that the signed soundtrack release is via the ultra ultra reduced soundcloud quality file. This will sadly mean that the tracks will sound a bit more without the bass track which in most scenarios means you will be running your games in a new and even better way in the future!! I am incredibly excited about this. Upon purchasing it I will briefly remove the files here
